

RETHINKING YOUR WORKING RHYTHM

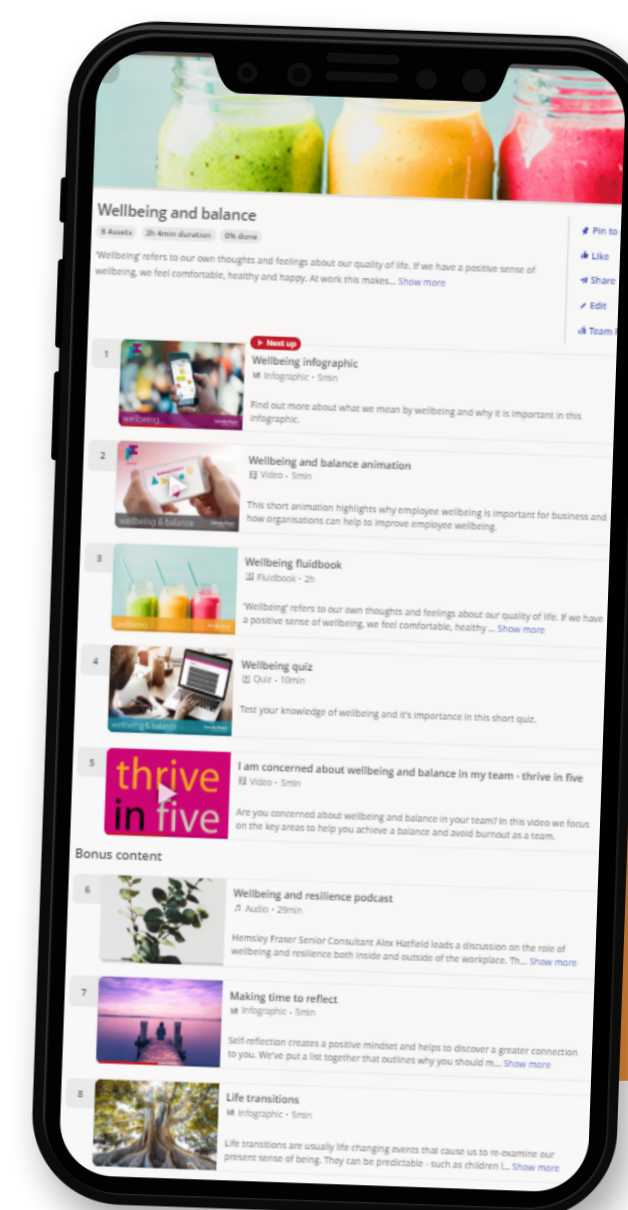

hemsleyfraser

As we are all working more virtually as part of the new normal, there is an opportunity to rethink how to organize your day to help boost your energy levels and creativity.

It is all too easy to be on back-to-back video calls, or for colleagues to book meetings or catch-ups in the only bit of space in your diary – so when do you get time to think, time to learn and time to reflect on decisions?

HF has put together this experience to support people in thinking about how to shape their working rhythm to be the most effective.
